EXECUTIVE PROFILE

Internationally recognized finance scholar, award-winning educator, entrepreneurial leader, and institution builder with nearly two decades of experience. A global expert on corporate financial distress, restructuring, and bankruptcy, whose interdisciplinary work spans finance, economics, and law and informs financial regulation and public policy, with extensive experience teaching and mentoring students across undergraduate, MBA, EMBA, PhD, and executive programs internationally. As Associate Dean at Smith School of Business, led a portfolio of 13 graduate and executive programs and 65 professional staff, driving strategic transformation, program innovation, organizational integration, and AACSB reaccreditation. Founded and led the Renmin–Queen's Master of Finance program, cultivated alumni engagement and forged strategic partnerships worldwide. Broader professional leadership includes serving as Vice President of the FMA and contributing policy proposals to the U.S. Congress and Senate on bankruptcy-court capacity and firm financing during COVID-19.

Research

- Published 25 articles in leading academic and practitioner journals, including eight in FT Top 50 journals.
- Co-authored a widely referenced scholarly book on corporate financial distress, restructuring, and bankruptcy.
- Presented research at more than 200 conferences, invited seminars, and public lectures worldwide.
- Research featured in major media and academic outlets, including The Wall Street Journal, Bloomberg, and the Harvard Law School Bankruptcy Roundtable.
- Secured seven competitive federal research grants totaling more than C$500,000 from Canada's Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council (SSHRC).

Teaching

- Taught and mentored students across the full spectrum of business education, from undergraduate through master's, MBA, EMBA, PhD, and executive programs internationally.
- Supervised and mentored undergraduate, MSc, and PhD students, including independent studies, theses, and doctoral research.
- Developed eight Harvard Business School case packages and extensive pedagogical materials, and co-authored a widely referenced scholarly book on corporate financial distress, restructuring, and bankruptcy.
- Received multiple awards and recognitions for teaching excellence and graduate supervision.
- Championed experiential and team-based learning through the Queen's University Alternative Asset Fund, international student competitions, and business coaching across Smith's professional graduate programs.

Leadership

- Led a portfolio of 13 MBA and professional graduate programs as Associate Dean, managing approximately 65 professional staff.
- Founded and led the Renmin–Queen's Master of Finance program in Beijing, building one of Queen's major international graduate programs.
- Elected Vice President of the Financial Management Association (FMA), responsible for financial education.
- Serves as Associate Editor of three finance journals, contributing to scholarly leadership in the field.
- Contributed to U.S. federal policy development during COVID-19, serving on a working group that developed bankruptcy-policy proposals for Congress and the Senate.
